THE OPTIMIST — 1958

City Schools' Fine Product

South Side High's Student Body Gives Views on Progress in Developing Newark's Youth

The News has recently published letters from the student bodies of West Side and Weequahic high schools, discussing the high aims of the young people in the classes and their desire to develop into worthy citizens. Herewith, the South Side High School Student Council officers join the discussion with a thoughtful, well-reasoned letter.

To the Editor:

Sir—We are most happy to add our warm praise for the fine student bodies and faculties of West Side and Weequahic High schools and for their wish to publicize the many worth-while aspects of student life prevailing in their schools. Exchanges of South Side student delegations with East Side this term and with West Side and Weequahic the year before have convinced us that fine accomplishments are coming out of all Newark schools.

It is not just school pride that leads us to believe that we are as well behaved, cooperative, diligent and friendly a student body as may be found anywhere in our state. Permit us to cite a few observations made by outsiders about our overall conduct. After a track meet with an out-of-city high school about a month ago we received a letter from their coach that made us feel very warm. Part of his comment read:

"We were most pleased with the courtesy and cooperation of your boys. This reflects excellent relations between pupils and coaches and no doubt is indicative of good general school citizenship at South Side High."

Pride of Achievement

While on the subject of sports, we might add that our record in sports is one that over the years has found us among the leaders in city and county athletic competition in various fields.

Our excellent school newspaper, The Hilltop Recorder, has won several prizes in the Columbia Scholastic Press Evaluation. A few months ago it received a letter-to-the-editor from an out-of-city high school pupil visiting our school for an entire day. A part of her comments read:

What Is the Law?

"Usually when someone visits a school the students are slightly cool toward the visitor, but the Sunny Siders all treated me as if I were one of them. The teachers included me in class discussions and in all corridors five or six students stopped to say, 'Hi.'"

Perhaps the cordiality and hospitality of our Hospitality Club contributes to such friendliness not only at PTSA meetings, but on all occasions. Incidentally, one of our girls was recently awarded the citywide PTSA scholarship for this term.

Sir, our eagerness to accept responsibilities, do the right thing and prepare for adulthood finds expression in our school in many ways. We believe our student government is one of the most effective and democratic in our entire community. Year after year it helps many of us to develop qualities of responsible leadership and citizenship and fosters warm, friendly relationships and acceptance of each other regardless of race, creed or color. Day after day this student government helps to regulate the many student activities with the sincere and considerate advice of an entire faculty and administration which is very much interested in our welfare.

Our pride in the accomplishments of our very large vocal and instrumental groups makes us wish we could sometime entertain the entire staff of The Newark News to a musical program of the kind we put on twice a year. We might then make headlines! However, serious again, we are proud when the director of music for the Newark Board of Education sends us a letter that reads:

"Friday night's concert was superb! The music was outstandingly beautiful—the decorum and evident enjoyment of participants and audience was a joy to see."

Such a letter gives us as much or more pleasure than newspaper headlines. These music groups have gladly provided many pleasant moments for hospitalized people in St. Barnabas, Home for Incurables, the Hobby Club for Older People. Our band, cheerleaders and twirlers have often given voluntarily of their fine services to many civic celebrations and ceremonies.

Thrift Encouraged

Another school activity we are very proud about is the savings habit being encouraged for so many of us. Our school, according to the Howard Savings Bank officials, is almost at the very top of the entire state in the amount of money saved every year. On the subject of finances, we are also very willing to do all we can to help build, through student activities, the Scholarship Loan Fund intended for deserving pupils aiming for college. This term two of our students have been awarded such help.

On the subject of scholarships a goodly number of South Siders are, or will be, attending Dartmouth, Princeton, New York University, Rutgers, Douglass, all of the New Jersey state teachers colleges, Upsala, Newark College of Engineering, Wilberforce and others, on scholarships, and reports from dean, of instruction indicate they are doing very well scholastically and in social growth.

Our interest in the welfare of others is shown by the many charity drives spearheaded in our school by the Red Cross Club. This group has made sizable collections for cancer, polio and Red Feather campaigns. It also has generously donated cartons of toys for overseas children, the Crippled Children's Hospital, baked cookies for veterans in the East Orange Veterans Hospital, sent Easter articles to the Holy Rosary Nursery in Newark.

Sir, we could go on listing many other worth-while student programs. In conclusion please note that all of these activities are routine day-to-day affairs. All of our parents and all News readers would be happy to be informed in more detail of all the many fine aspects of our growth in all Newark schools. Please accentuate the positive because thereby you also can help us grow.

Weequahic beaten by South Side, 13-0; Carthon: Both TDs

Ken Carthon scored both touchdowns yesterday to lead South Side High to a 13-0 City League victory over winless Weequahic at Untermann Field. The victory put South Side in second place with two victories in three league games.

Carthon's first touchdown, in the opening period, was set up when Darrell Heath intercepted a Barry Wiernik pass on the Weequahic 34. Three plays later, Dale Lebo passed to Carthon, who grabbed the ball on the 18 and ran for distance.

In the second quarter, Carthon scored again on a 10-play drive. The touchdown was set up by a pass from Heath to Carthon, who ran for the score.

Carthon's second touchdown was set up by a pass from Heath to Carthon, who ran for the score. The touchdown was set up by a pass from Heath to Carthon, who ran for the score.

South Side wins over Snyder, 5-4

JERSEY CITY, April 16 — South Side High of Newark scored four runs in the fourth and added the decisive run in the fifth for a 5-4 victory over Snyder today.

After trailing 3-0, South Side took hold in the fourth on three singles, a double and a squeeze bunt. Dave Beyer, Wilford Borre and Dale Lebo singled, Russell Rogers doubled and Walter Menzie's put down a squeeze bunt to send South Side ahead, 4-3.

In the next inning, Oran Orr took first when he was hit by a pitched ball, stole second and scored on Borre's single.

South Side's Snyder, Beyer, Jordan (4), Lebo (4), Menzie, Machuga, Naugle (6) and Cosello (7) pitched.

South Side wins school relay title

South Side High, winner of the city indoor track championship Monday, won four of five events yesterday to take the Newark High Schools relay title in the Newark Armory. South Side had won five dual meets before the title meet.

South Side scored 21 points while second-place Weequahic had 13 in the six-team field.

Charley Sipp, Ken Benton, Jim Graham and Russ Rogers formed the winning South Side quartet in both the four and six-lap relays. South Side also won the one and two-mile events while West Side broke the string in the two-mile medley.

Six-Lap Relay (2:18.5): 1—South Side (Sipp, Benton, Graham, Rogers); 2—Barringer; 3—Weequahic; 4—East Side.
Mile Relay (3:50): 1—South Side (Jones, Marable, Stanley, Brown); 2—Weequahic; 3—Central; 4—East Side.

Parental Gratitude Brings Warm Response—Meeting School Problems Through Citizen Cooperation

An Appreciation

To the Editor:

Sir—Please permit me to thank The News and its able staff for highlighting in such an expressive manner in its columns last week the feeling of gratitude of a South Side parent for the efforts expended by the faculty of this school in behalf of her two sons.

My appreciation rests, among other things, on the fact that I happen to share completely this particular parent's high regard for the members of the South Side faculty. I am convinced there is no more able and dedicated group of professional men and women to be found anywhere, and any public recognition of this fact—no matter how fortuitous the circumstances—cannot but be heart-warming.

A rather interesting sidelight was the impact of your front-page story on the student body of this school. In corridors, classrooms, staircases and cafeteria (contrary to the opinion held in certain circles, modern urban secondary school principals really spend no time at all cowering beneath their office desks!) the principal was unceasingly approached, the morning following, by youngsters whose only thought was to tell me "all about it." And lo! by some mysterious process of psychological "osmosis" difficult to isolate, it was no longer one lone parent who had complimented the school, but the very News itself in all its journalistic might and grandeur, and, obviously, The News could do no wrong!

As if this was not enough, the principal's home phone kept ringing intermittently during the evening hours, with "interested citizens" and well-meaning friends expressing this or that viewpoint. Among these a few, praised be, evinced more than a passing interest in the progress of the school's Scholarship Loan Fund!

But one wonders if there are not implications which go beyond these more obvious ones—implications in terms of our so-called educational "failures" as well as our "successes" (these latter so often evidenced in publicity given to scholarships, deans' lists and similar accomplishments of competitive attainment). No teacher or administrator worth his salt but winces when, despite hard, drudging, unrelenting effort on his part (in the face of countless sociological, economic and psychological odds); no teacher, I say, but winces when such youngster falls into the morass. But even more so when he notes on occasion in our mass media of communication, too, a sometimes more than implied indictment of today's education and educators, as if these were expected to be endowed with a kind of super magic in social and/or personality rehabilitation. If one parent's adulation, as expressed in your columns, serves only as the vehicle for a reappraisal of the too-often superficial, sometimes intemperate and unfounded "public" viewpoint on such "incidents," then much will have been gained. In education, as in all other highly complex human endeavors, there are no "easy" answers and facile solutions, as we who toil daily in the fields know all too well.

If your discerning and stimulating editorial of recent date does more than to inspire those "good will"—both professional educators and lay citizens—in this community of ours to move freely in the direction of understanding and of studied, and dispassionate, rather than operate and critical, appraisal of educational problems in their most feasible solution, will have done this community a far-reaching service indeed.

No Doll, Sondra

Newark's Little Miss Lee Prefers to Be Known as Good Actress

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Sondra Lee of Newark, a dancer turned actress in the Broadway farce "Hotel Paradiso," looks like a doll at a petite 4'10" with proportions to match.

But... "I AM NOT A DOLL," she declared good-naturedly. "People who tweek my cheek...ugh... I've been fighting it all my life."

"Is that why you decided to play the amoral French maid in 'Paradiso'?" we asked.

"Certainly not," snapped Sondra. "I'm a dancer, but I am also a good actress, and the maid Victoire, is an excellent part." She was twisting her wedding ring.

"I really don't have to PROVE I'm a fully grown woman!"

SONDRA is married to Sidney Armus, an actor who is currently understudy to Paul Douglas in "Hole in the Head."

"It's funny," Sondra reminisced. "Nobody ever thought I was cute in Newark. I guess I was too rebellious, which my parents will testify to, I'm sure."

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. David Gash of Clinton Pl.

To make sure that we'd believe she was a teenage rebel, Sondra also said we could check with her teachers at South Side High School.

"Only one, Miss Black, my English teacher, ever thought I'd amount to something. She told me so."

SONDRA says that she had a somewhat guilty conscience about her high school record. After graduation in 1946, she immediately put school out of her mind.

It was, therefore, with considerable shock, that she recently entertained a visitor in her dressing room who turned out to be a Mr. Feldman of the Newark Board of Education.

"My God, the truant officer," she gasped.

It was only after Mr. Feldman assured her he had not come to take her back to school, that she relaxed and had "a very nice visit with a very nice man."

SONDRA made Broadway almost immediately after leaving Newark. She was a dancer in "High Button Shoes."

She also appeared in "Reuben, Reuben" and on all the major television networks in both dramatic and musical roles.

She is perhaps best remembered for her piquant portrayal of Tiger Lily in the Mary Martin revival of "Peter Pan."

Last year, she was one of the stars in Roland Petit's famous "Ballet de Paris," the only American in the company.

When Sondra isn't acting these days, or practicing her dancing, or keeping house, or being interviewed, or any number of the many things required of a near-star, she is writing.

"It's fiction," she told me, "but much of it is personal."

Alumni Chorus

14-Year-Old Newark Group to Give Its Annual Concert Friday at South Side

The Newark Alumni Chorus, under direction of Dorothy I. Schneider, its permanent conductor, will present its 14th annual concert Friday at 8:30 p.m. at South Side High School. The concert will be dedicated to Agnes Murphy director of music education at Newark Board of Education, who has been a staunch supporter of the chorus for years. The program will include songs of classical and contemporary composers, and will feature the Alumni Madrigal Singers and songs of the Rennaisperiod. Schneider, with the assistance of the late Paul H. Olin, will continue singing. The Newark Alumni Chorus has produced its own concerts. In its 14-year history, the chorus has performed 138 productions, and participated in numerous civic functions, including the Youth Week celebration, Civil Defense, and various PTA programs. The chorus has also participated in a broadcast on Newark-on-the-Air Station C. At Christmas, the chorus sings in the aged, and many of the custom-made costumes for the particular year. The chorus is an occupational group, and its members are employed in various occupations, including teachers, nurses, and social workers.

great interest in the activities of a few of our local ethnocentrics whose statements occasionally find their way into the public press. It would be tempting to explore the personalities of such characters as they reveal their own feelings of insecurity by loud insistence on erecting self-defensive social barrier lines. As individuals their fears do not merit further publicity and I am resisting the temptation.

It is only when they rationalize their own power needs by publicly retelling the musty legend of neighborhood-type inferiority that I feel the call to make some strong public utterances myself.

For about 10 years I have been a teacher at South Side High School. Pupil for pupil, I have found the children in that school just as worthy, just as interesting and just as sensitive as the students in any other school I have known. They exhibit the usual varieties of adolescent anxieties, self-assertion mechanisms and basic needs which you can find in youngsters from all parts of the city.

Yet the segregationists will tell you that this school lies well within the borders of the kind of socio-economic area they would like to isolate and stigmatize. I can tell you that these culture purists have purposely twisted result and cause. They have taken the child, who by mere accident of birth has been exposed to the mores of a particular pattern of limited possibilities, and measured his I.Q., his reading grade and his social competence with the same tests used to score the youngsters of more privileged experience. Then—they have used the contrast in results to prove the inferiority of the one group!

Many teachers at South Side High have successfully proved that some children suffer more from being unmotivated than they do from being unable! In one experiment, for example, we have been able to reteach reading skills to certain adolescent rebels whose chronic failures had previously caused them to reject the long-range goals of academic achievement for the more immediate satisfaction of hot-rod cars, physical and sexual aggression, and the illegal acquisition of the materials of security and status. Many others have found special classes with permissive teachers who will help them to re-establish worth-while life goals.

Every day I see them grow responsible in their student government organization. I see them grow self-disciplined during their school social affairs. I continue to see their genuine, good-humored naturalness. It seems to me that the positive philosophy of South Side's faculty and administration is best represented by the words of Markham: "He drew a circle that shut me out—heretic, rebel, a thing to flout. But Love and I had the wit to win: we drew a circle that took him in!"

Don't ever let anybody trap you into undervaluing any of your citywide neighbors.

LEONARD J. BUCHNER,
Reading Counselor, South Side High School,
Newark.

Likes the School

Grateful Mother Brings $50 Gift

Mrs. Arthur Landever of 194 Avon Ave. dropped in at South Side High School the other day and asked to see the principal, Fred Landolphi. He was out, so she left a sealed envelope for him.

A principal is used to expecting almost anything, but Landolphi never expected what he found upon opening the envelope. It contained a crisp, new $50 bill which Mrs. Landever wished to donate "to the school" in appreciation of the fine educational efforts of the faculty and Arthur, graduates of South Side who are now in college.

Philip, a 1952 graduate who has since served three years in the Marine Corps, is a student at Rutgers Newark College of Arts and Sciences. Arthur, a 1954 graduate, is a dean's list student who has won four successive annual full scholarships at New York University.

For Scholarship Fund

Further contact with Mrs. Landever revealed she would be happy to dedicate her gift to the school's scholarship loan fund set up nearly a year ago to aid needy and deserving graduates to pursue college studies. Also, at Landolphi's urging, she agreed to give up her desire for anonymity in connection with her gift.

What prompted her action? "Well, it's just that my boys are making out so well and I love the school so much," Mrs. Landever said today. "They have the most wonderful teachers there and Mr. Landolphi is a wonderful principal. It gets me irritated when I hear people who do not have children in the school and do not know how wonderful it is, criticize it."

Wonders at Surprise

"I try to help the school whenever I can. I still belong to the PTA even though my sons have graduated. My husband, when I told him I wanted to make the gift to the school, wanted to add to it. But we decided we couldn't at present. I don't know why anyone should be surprised. I didn't do anything, really."

Landolphi said today he was still "glowing" from the shock. "This is my 26th year in the Newark school system," he said, "and, believe me, while all educators get, from time to time, sporadic indications of parental appreciation for services rendered their offspring, this is the very first time I can recall it's coming in such direct, tangible and heartfelt fashion."

A Modern Story

As you approach South Side High with your companion, you are discussing the haps of the previous night at your pad.

"Man, we really waited last night! I really goof behind those sounds of reknown by Dave Brubeck. You know, like that's where I'm at," your friend says.

You go to your locker in the same aloof manner, just shagging along and beating your chops every minute. As you enter your homeroom, you give the teacher the usual greeting, "Give me five, daddy-o," and he looks at you in that same quizzical facial expression as if to say, "Will I ever master this language?" In your opinion, this teach is all right, he's smart enough not to be a John yet not exactly as wise or dapt as he should be.

On your way to your first period class you meet this cat and find yourself up a tree because he's pressing you for the fin you owe him. You try doing a snow-job on this turkey.

"Listen, square, I'll mash the loan on you tomorrow because you know, like I'm embarassed financially. That's about the size of it."

This is to no avail, because this boy has been hanging-out and acquiring valuable info, so that he's way out, too. He replies, "Since I might be late for class, I'll have to see you later, about chow-time, and if you even attempt to ig me, you'll be in a lot of hot water, dig?"

Not waiting for an answer, you lope off to class. As you arrive on the scene, late of course, after hustling about 5 feet, you find your teach is not in a jovial mood and you can surmise that you might be in trouble. After doing a job on him, he relents and you breathe easier. The rest of the morning is nill as you pass from class to class.

You sense it's about that time, because your stomach is growling. You begin sweating it because an associate of yours is hawking the scene for you. Your sense of smell tells you that the hot meal in the cafeteria is the most. The bell rings and because you have study in 61 the fourth period, you are always first in line. You begin stashing the food away so that the cat that's looking for you won't give you indigestion. As you finish, you express yourself by saying, "Man, that meal was saying the most!"

You gaze out of the corner of your eye and see your comrade making it your way. You decide that there's no use in prolonging the agony and you fork over the dough. Your newly-formed ally replies, "Cool, mama."

Definitions All Seniors Know

Auditorium: A room full of many seats half of which are made of wood.

Laughter: A special sound made by a person when he is happy, tickled, or running for G.O. President.

Locker: A hole in the wall that you and you alone know the combination to, have nothing special in, but always want to go to because you can't.

Teacher's Room: A mysterious room which you've never entered and wonder what's going on in because somebody always comes out laughing from.

Mark: A symbol that can make or break you.

Friend: A person who will give you his homework, let you copy his tests, and doesn't mind if you don't give him yours.

Teacher-friend: A man or woman you like very much, even though he's a teacher.

Gum: A sticky substance which sticks only to your teeth and not under your tongue.

Notebook: A hard cover under which are empty pages, not so empty pages, and pages that may as well have been empty.

Desktop: A wooden tablet of hieroglyphics which can be translated only by high school students.

Ponytail: Something to distinguish the girl-types from the boy-types.

TV: That evil that either keeps you from homework or drives you to homework.

Homework: A job you're not sure how to do because you didn't copy the right assignment and you weren't going to do it anyway.

Hallways: Spaces in between classes.
